

NEW MEXICO SANDPLAY SOCIETY
PRESENTS

La Llorona Weeps: Traumatic grief, sandplay and neural integration

PRESENTER: Lorraine R. Freedle, PhD, ABPdN, CST-T

with an opening ceremony by Dr. Rev. Ted Wiard and Chris Lucero telling the story of La Llorona

This workshop will explore the legend of La Llorona, the weeping woman through storytelling, music, art making, and a case study.

Drawing from the work of prominent neuroscientists and original research, Dr. Freedle will also review the effects of trauma on the brain and explain how sandplay therapy facilitates neural integration and transformative healing in the wake of traumatic grief.

Presenter: Dr. Lorraine R. Freedle is a clinical social worker, pediatric neuropsychologist, and international sandplay therapy teacher (STA/ISST). She is the Clinical Director of Pacific Quest, a holistic outdoor behavioral health program in Hilo, Hawai'i where she also maintains a private practice, Black Sand Neuropsychological Services. She is on faculty at Southwestern College in Santa Fe, NM. Dr. Freedle has published numerous professional journal articles and chapters, and is an award-winning researcher for her studies of sandplay therapy with adults with traumatic brain injury and youth with co-occurring trauma and addiction. She currently serves as Research Editor for the Journal of Sandplay Therapy.
